FAMILY ALLOWANCES

AND INCOME TAX

THE following announcement will help to clarify the relationship between Family Allowances and Income Tax credits for dependent children. Family Allowances are payable from July 1st, 1945, and the registration of children is now taking place.

The Family Allowances Act was designed to help equalize opportunities for all children, and when the Act was passed, Parliament approved the principle that there should be no duplication of benefits by way of Family Allowances and Income Tax credits for the same child. An amendment to the Income War Tax Act will be made to deal with this duplication. In the meantime, however, the Government proposes, for the last six months of 1945 during which Family Allowances are payable, to remove duplication by adjusting the income tax credits received for children.

It is natural that parents in the low income groups will be expected to receive maximum benefits from Family Allowances. Partial benefits will be received, however, by parents with incomes up to $3,000.

The table below shows the effect of the adjustments which the Government has decided to make. For convenience and simplicity the benefits received by each income group are shown as a per cent of the Family Allowances received. The table shows:

TABLE SHOWING EFFECT OF ADJUSTMENT FOR 1945.

AMOUNT OF TAXABLE INCOME		Percent by which taxpayers will benefit from Family Allowances in addition to present income tax credits, for 1945.
Over $1200 but not over	Not over $1200
1400	1400	100%	of
1600	1600	90%	the
1800	1800	80%	actual
2000	2000	70%	Family
2200	2200	60%	Allowances
2400	2400	50%	received
2600	2600	40%	in the
2800	2800	30%	year
3000	3000	20%	1945.
		0%

NOTE—This table applies to married persons and others having the status of married persons for income tax purposes. For the relatively small number of single persons supporting children and not having married status for income tax purposes, and for members of the Armed Forces, special tables can be obtained from the Regional Director of Family Allowances in each provincial capital.

Family Allowances will be paid in full

In all cases, those who apply for and are eligible to receive Family Allowances will receive them in full, month by month. See scale below:

SCALE OF MONTHLY ALLOWANCES FOR THE FIRST FOUR CHILDREN

For each child
Under 6	$5.00
From 6 to 9 (inclusive)	6.00
From 10 to 12 (inclusive)	7.00
From 13 to 15 (inclusive)	8.00

Where there are more than four children under 16 in the family, the monthly allowance for each child after the fourth will be reduced in accordance with the provisions of the Family Allowances Act.

As far as is possible, to take care of the adjustments necessary to avoid duplication of benefits, current income tax deductions at the source will be adjusted to take into account the new situation when Family Allowance payments commence. This will avoid placing an awkward burden on the taxpayers at the end of the year.

FAMILY ALLOWANCES ARE NOT TAXABLE

Special attention is drawn to the fact that the income ranges used in the table above refer to taxable income, and any amounts received as Family Allowances should not therefore be included in calculating income for this purpose because Family Allowances are not taxable.

Family Allowances are also additional to dependents' allowances for servicemen's families and military pensions.

For children registered after July 1st, 1945, Family Allowances will be paid as from the month following the month when registration is made. Family Allowances are not paid retroactively.

Published under the authority of
Hon. BROOKE CLAXTON, Minister,
Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa

Education For Peace

EVENTS OF THE PAST THIRTY YEARS have taught us much about war and peace. In that time we have participated in two world wars and have witnessed twenty years of uneasy peace. We are now nearing another era of peace and there is profound hope among the people of the victorious nations that it will not be uneasy and that it will be more enduring than the last one. It is now realized that there cannot be any hope for permanent world peace unless we are prepared to put into it as much energy and interest as we have given to the prosecution of the war. Lethargy on the part of people and of nations made it possible for the Axis powers to build up sufficient armed might to seriously threaten the whole world, and there is no doubt but that they are prepared to do it again in the future, if we do not remain constantly vigilant.

Approaches to the difficult task of laying the foundations for an enduring peace are being made through many channels. World trade conditions, social and economic problems, international boundaries and countless other matters are involved in the consideration of possible causes of future wars. Among those who have joined in the effort to plan for a wise and lasting peace are educationists here and in other democratic countries. From them have come strong recommendations that a permanent international office for education be included as part of the world peace machinery. We have seen what was accomplished in Germany by inculcating the youth of that country with Nazi ideas. The great value of an educational program, designed to make our young people aware of the principles of democracy and of the forces which threaten democratic institutions, should not be overlooked at this time.

Should Learn Of Democracy

Educational leaders in Canada have joined with those of Great Britain and the United States in pointing out the importance of education as one means of safeguarding the peace. Dr. E. F. Willoughby, of Winnipeg, President of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, stated recently that "if the people of Canada do not succeed in building a new, intelligent, informed, loyal citizenship we shall lose the war, even though our soldiers march in triumph through the streets of Berlin." He further suggested that Canadian schools should be deliberately designed to provide education "in and for democracy" as a means of preserving our way of life. Such a program would place a great responsibility on those engaged in educational work, but it would also given them an opportunity to have a part in the building of an enduring peace.

Planting Potatoes

The Proper Way To Cut Potatoes For Seed

What is the best way to cut potatoes when it comes time to plant them? They should not be cut into too many pieces, nor planted in too large chunks.

The proper way to cut potatoes for seed is to divide them into blocky seed pieces weighing from an ounce and a half to two ounces each and with each piece containing two eyes. The tuber's seed end, which contains the most eyes, should be split.

The number of seed pieces which should be cut from any potato depends on its variety and on its size. For example, a six to eight ounce tuber should make four seed pieces. A five ounce tuber can be cut into three pieces—two from the seed end and the other, the stem end of the tuber.

Captain Can't Float

Telephone Operator Had To Have An Explanation

The switchboard operator at the Prince Rupert Drydock one day received the following telephone call from the captain of a ship: "Will you please tell Mr. Halerow I won't be in today. I can't float."

Somewhat surprised, the operator gave the message to Mr. Halerow, who understood it perfectly. He explained that the captain's ship was a girl and could not be floated off until the next high tide, hence his remark: "I can't float."

No Help Whatever

Gold The Germans Had Stored No Use As War Aid

Just about the most useless thing the Germans could have possessed in this war was all that gold they had cached in a salt mine. Not because they had it hidden a couple of thousand feet underground but because it was of no use to them in any place or in any form. Gold is, in fact, the one "non-strategic" war metal, as our own Canadian metal regulations reveal. It will not serve as rations and is of no help in the provision of munitions or equipment.—Halifax Herald.

PRISON CAMP COMMANDANT, PRISONER—Col. von Stern, commandant of Oflag 6A, a prison camp near Seest, Germany, was taken so completely by surprise when he was captured by these Yanks that he hadn't time to don his trousers. His long overcoat covers his naked legs.

Sugar Rationing

The Effect Of The War On Sugar Consumption

In the pre-war period, the United Kingdom was the largest consumer of sugar on a per-capita basis, and Canada was the smallest, according to the second report of a special joint committee of the Combined Food Board, reporting on food consumption levels in the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom. In 1944 the United States is expected to have the largest per-capita consumption of sugars and syrups, and the United Kingdom the least. As all three countries are dependent upon offshore sources for a substantial portion of their sugar supply, some decline in consumption is to be expected during wartime. Reductions of about 10 per cent. in the United States and Canada, and of approximately 30 per cent. in the United Kingdom have occurred since the pre-war period. Sugar was rationed at an early date in all three countries, and the level of consumption has remained fairly constant since rationing became effective. Relatively small increases in consumption are expected in all three countries in 1944, as compared with 1943. Preliminary estimates for 1944 of food supplies entering into civilian consumption per year per head of population place the figures as follows: Sugars and syrups, United States, 94.9 lb.; Canada, 89.6 lb.; Britain, 75.6 lb. Pre-war figures were, United States, 106.7 lb.; Canada, 103.3 lb.; Britain, 109.7 lb.

TO RESTORE CHURCHES

The British Information Services reported that Britain's Protestant churches aim to raise £1,000,000 ($4,500,000) for rehabilitation of churches and ministries in liberated Europe. The B.I.S. said the plan was made known in a statement from the Archbishop of Canterbury endorsed by the heads of all Protestant denominations in Britain.

Penicillin Mist Absorbed Through Lungs Arrests Growth Of Blood Poisoning Bacteria

Penicillin airborne in a fine mist and absorbed into the blood through the lungs may become a common way of applying this amazing healer.

Reporting in the Lancet, a medical publication, bacteriologists Frank Alexander Knott and W. H. Clark, of Guy's hospital, London, told of tests where volunteers sat for 15 minutes in a small closed room into which half a teaspoon of penicillin had been sprayed.

Blood samples showed sufficient concentration to arrest the growth of the bacteria causing blood poisoning.

"Mumsey, is the devil a man?" "No, dear, he's worse than a man."

"But, mumsey, you don't mean he's a woman, do you?"

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—Do I have to surrender ration coupons for infant's food?

A.—Infant's canned vegetables are unrationed, but the canned fruit or fruit mixed with rice or any other food is rationed. The rate is 20 ounces for one preserves coupon, which gives you four of the small five ounce tins.

Q.—Which coupons will we use for preserves and sugar for canning when the present sheet of orange preserves coupons has been used up?

A.—You will use coupons "P" in ration five for this purpose. The Board will announce in the usual way when the first coupons on this page will become valid.

Q.—I am waiting for my discharge from the Air Force. I have been told that it will be difficult for me to purchase a civilian suit. Does the Government not try to help the ex-serviceman in obtaining clothing?

A.—Every demobilized man or woman at the time of discharge will be issued a certificate which will entitle him to buy one either ready-to-wear suit or suit tailored to measure. These certificates will greatly assist the serviceman in buying his suit, but it is not compulsory that the certificates be presented when a purchase is made.

Q.—Have any of the ration coupons in ration book five been declared invalid?

A.—All ration coupons in book five are still valid.

VALUE OF TOXOID EMPHASIZED

The authentic report from the health division of UNRRA that Nazi armies carried diphtheria with them to parts of invaded Europe is significant in that it serves to emphasize the value of toxoid and just what can happen when health services, including immunization, are disrupted or neglected. Canadian health authorities have reason to be proud of such a report.

The UNRRA report said Norway, the Netherlands, Belgium, Northern France and Czechoslovakia suffered especially. Only Great Britain and Hungary, where immunization was pushed to the limit, escaped the scourge.

Disease carriers with the Nazi armies spread diphtheria epidemics wherever they went. The same can happen in Canada, with our own returning troops perhaps being the innocent "carriers."

In an editorial warning against diphtheria, the Toronto Globe and Mail said that "considering that thousands of Canadian soldiers soon will be returning from the Netherlands, Belgium and Northern France, which have especially suffered from the German-borne scourge, the value of toxoid is underlined."

The editorial was published during observance of Toronto's 15th annual Toxoid Week, sponsored by the Health League of Canada and the Toronto Department of Public Health. It stated that "careless parents who fail to take advantage of the opportunity to have children treated at no cost to them will be derelict in duty if they fail to guard against a threatened invasion of the disease. They surely ought to be shaken from their indifference by the warning that occurs constitute no effective barrier against a disease of the diphtheria type."

Dr. Gordon Jackson, Toronto's medical officer of health, said in a Toxoid Week message that toxoid is the only substance known to science that proves efficient, lasting and positively harmless in the protection against diphtheria.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

NO INTEREST

By JEAN CAMERON

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"So you've been visiting the little pigs again?" asked Owen Roberts, sitting up and removing his hat from before his face.

"Oink," said the baby. "Oink, oink."

"Go in the house and say that to your grandmother," warned Owen, "and she'll probably serve you up for dinner with an apple in your mouth."

Martha who had come out with a jar of jelly and a plate of fresh buns hot from the oven, gave him a bawling cry. "Stop frightening your young-est," she commanded. "I'm glad you're awake. I've just heard the full story of Jane's uncle's will, and now I want your advice."

Owen was down, his face covered, before she finished speaking. "This is my vacation," he said drowsily, vaguely putting out a hand for a bun. "I don't want to hear about inheritances and legacies. I don't want to solve crimes or legal problems. I've no interest in Uncle Will."

"Not Uncle Will—her uncle's will," corrected Martha. "That's what she said."

"Who?"

"Mr. Blake said he was putting his money in a bank that paid no interest. Now they can't find it, and you know how hard up Jane's family is—she's postponed her wedding twice because her teaching salary is practically all they have to live on. He left a good estate, too, if it could be located."

Owen sat up. "That's a shame. Jane seems like a nice girl."

"You mean she tickled your vanity by praising the children outrageously. Owen, honey, with all you know about banks—"

"That is, I have prosecuted a couple of bank robbers in the course of my checkered career. Martha, you haven't given me a thing to go on. Didn't the old diffuser leave a bank book?"

"Well, the truth is he was rather queer during the latter part of his life. He lost quite a lot of money ten years ago, and over after he did plenty of talking about how he was outwitting the bankers. He even opened accounts under different names. They've found two of those, but they were awfully tiny. And then he kept saying he'd selected a bank that was safe enough because it promised no interest, and that was the best way—to hoard for food like the squirrels, whereas men hoard for gain and lose everything, and that it was unnatural to expect money to grow, and so on."

Owen swallowed an entire bun. "It sounds to me," he ejaculated with some difficulty, "as though he had a savings deposit box instead of an account."

"That's clever of you. But they've thought of that already, and they can't locate any box of his in the towns near by. And Uncle never travelled. He was content with his farm and his books."

"We ought to vote for a law requiring photographs on all bank books and deposit boxes," Owen grumbled. "Think how useful that would be. And he left no papers, will, anything?"

"Just a letter for Jane's father. It said exactly what I told you he'd been advising people for a long while: That he dealt with a bank that paid no interest no matter how much time there was—and to remember the squirrels and not to expect unnatural gains. They thought it was rather incoherent, and yet except for his hatred of banks and his fear of thieves Uncle Blake was a remarkably clever businessman."

"No interest—bank—time—time... I know a bank where the wild thyme blows," Martha!

"What on earth are you jumping about?"

"Bank—bank, woman! Thyme—time—thyme is an aromatic herb. Isn't there a great patch in your mother's garden here? What about the Blake farm? And doesn't the river run through Mr. Blake's property?"

"Thyme? Why, of course they grow some. And you know perfectly well the river is there. You saw it yesterday. Owen, what ARE you driving at? You don't mean..."

"So Jane is a teacher, eh? She ought to get married. What would a man who hated banks, and one who was afraid to write too plainly for fear the letter would fall into the wrong hands? Squirrels—squirrels hoard in hollow trees, and there certainly wouldn't be any interest. Martha, phone Jane; ask her if there's any possible hiding place—a cave or some hollow trees on the river bank near the thyme patch. Ask her..."

he lay back resignedly, for Martha had already disappeared into the house.

She was back in a moment, pink with excitement. "Oh, Owen, that must be it. Why, there's even a hole hollow trees on the river bank near the thyme patch. Ask her..."

Thank GOD For VICTORY

Many of our citizens may conclude that the need for backing our Government by means of the eighth Victory Loan campaign is over it would be exceedingly unfortunate if such an impression should prevail guerilla fighting policing enemy countries, caring for our wounded and former prisoners of war, and feeding starving millions in Allied countries will require immense sums of money. And for the happier uses such as bringing home our boys, with transportation mustering out pay, and rehabilitation costs equally immense sums will be needed during the next six months.

There is still much to be done, let's finish the job now and say thanks by helping over subscribing the eighth Victory Loan.

Does your answer to this question satisfy your own conscience?

WHAT IS CHINOOK DOING TO HELP THE WAR EFFORT?

We are getting three meals a day. We sleep in comfortable beds. Our family incomes have increased during the war years. [This is true in most cases]

We have never had to "feel our way" along ice-covered deck of a ship in a sub zone, with cold waves washing over us... taking a chance that we may be washed overboard and in constant risk that a torpedo will sink us in mid-ocean.

We have never walked into machine gun fire through mud and slush with enemy planes overhead and shells bursting right and left; going without sleep and food for days at a time.

We have never jumped from burning planes with a chance of being shot at as we parachute earthward... and a chance of being taken prisoner if we land safely.

We have been asked to buy Victory Bonds... and perhaps we have bought bonds. What has it meant to us? We are better off because we have them. If we need cash for any emergency we can sell our bonds and get cash. If we need a loan we can get a loan on our bonds. Yes, we are better off because we have the bonds.

Now we are asked to buy more Victory Bonds. We are asked to do something to help our country and, again, we will benefit when we do so. Not much sacrifice in that is there?

This is one thing we Can do...
one thing we shall do... BUY
